Selection Criteria Exposed

Selection criteria exposed, the third edition, is a collection of 200 examples of statements addressing selection criteria. These examples are used by candidates applying for jobs in the local, state and commonwealth governments.

The selection criteria examples have been written and assessed by professional writers and government selection panel members to ensure they are of the exceptional quality and provide the highest quality guidance possible to job applicants.

Praise for Selection Criteria Exposed

“A fantastic resource. I have used it for two applications and have gotten interviews for both.”

“Three job applications, three job interviews and two job offers thanks to your book. The quality and variety of selection criteria examples meant I could find something that was suited just right to me, and also your advice gave me the confidence that I'm sure put me over the line at the interviews. Now, how to choose which job?”

“The information in your ebook is simple, it's laid out in a sequential format from introduction, describing the situation, gives relevant and detailed examples on how an applicant could demonstrate an application of skills as well as finishing off the criterion with results. Even though many jobs are technical, your ebook provided suitable plain language examples to allow any none technical recruiter to understand the value of the applicant - me.”

“As I worked through your ebook and my application I found that your ebook provides an up to date style guide for applicants, and takes the guess work out of what the recruiters are looking for.”

“I knew prior to your ebook I was doing something wrong, and your ebook clarified that it wasn't what I was writing, it was how I was writing it. I now needed to tell a story to the recruiter rather than a clinical layout of the STAR criterion. Your examples provide me an opportunity to become 'personable' to the recruiter because they are written in a manner which is less clinical than my writing and display the more approachable, personable side of me.”
